The first game of the 2018-2019 Stanley Cup Playoffs is approaching on Wednesday and Tuesday night's potential matchup between the Hurricanes and the Capitals is the first of the two first round matchups set to play, with the other series set to kick off on Thursday. There's plenty of excitement and eagerness to get the Hurricanes back into the postseason — and be loud in the Bell Centre, where the team hasn't been able to play since their Round 1 matchup with the Flyers back in 2011. With their 26th overall pick in the NHL Draft, they select Oskar Lindblom, a Swedish winger with a good shot and the ability to play in the center and on the wing. Since the last time the Capitals and Hurricanes played, they have not missed the Stanley Cup Playoffs since and finished in the top-seeded spot in the Eastern Conference last season. (The Hurricanes finished with the fourth best record in the Eastern Conference, while the Capitals finished Occ13bf012
