them. It is very useful in case you have to cut out a clip of a movie in your video editor and need to upload it to an external video server. If you use the Download Video option, you are presented with a direct link to the video that you just downloaded. You can start and stop recording, pause and resume the video, while using this module, on the fly. The module also has a Test Link functionality. It will return the video URL that the Download Video function has generated, so you can use it to test your link. It supports all video formats. It works with movie files, MKV, AVI, WMV and more. The module comes with an integrated video player that allows you to preview your video when it is on your computer. It also has a video downloader and video converter, in case you need to extract the audio from your video file, or convert it into a different format. With this module you can take screenshots of any part of your web page, and create thumbnails of these images. Thumbnails are extremely useful for search engine optimization, as they help websites rank higher in search results. They also allow the users to judge whether a website is worth visiting, or not. This module allows you to take screenshots of any part of your web page, and create thumbnails of these images. In the process, it also creates a link that you can use to share the screenshot on
