BCR/ABL1-dependent cell survival requires the activation of Ras/Raf/MEK/ERK and PI3K/AKT pathways. Activation of BCR/ABL1 is an essential hallmark of chronic myelogenous leukemia (CML) and is considered a target for therapy. The tyrosine kinase inhibitor (TKI) imatinib, also an inhibitor of c-Kit and PDGFR, is widely used for the therapy of CML. However, frequent and recurrent imatinib-resistant clones are generated, suggesting that pathways other than BCR/ABL1 signaling must mediate imatinib resistance. Here we report that imatinib resistant (Imatinib R) and imatinib sensitive (Imatinib S) CML progenitor cells exhibit distinct molecular alterations. While Imatinib S cells harbor a mutated c-Kit mutation, Imatinib R cells demonstrate increased expression of activated PI3K/Akt/mTOR and a mutated Ras family member. Activation of PI3K/Akt/mTOR, and a reduction in BCR/ABL1 phosphorylation were highly correlated with reduced sensitivity to imatinib. Additionally, overexpression of c-Raf or inhibition of extracellular signal regulated kinase (ERK) 1/2 activation were sufficient to partially re-sensitize Imatinib S cells to imatinib treatment. Conversely, inhibition of the PI3K pathway or ectopic expression of a constitutively active ERK1/2 mutant enhanced imatinib resistance in Imatinib R cells. This study provides important insights into molecular mechanisms of imatinib resistance and illustrates the close relationship between oncogenic pathways downstream of BCR/ABL1 and its clinical outcome.

Each year, EA SPORTS unleashes a game unlike any other. Based on the award-winning FIFA video game franchise, FIFA introduces new ways to play and enjoy the beautiful game of soccer. FIFA's deep game engine - and innovative gameplay innovations - provide a true football experience like no other. What's new in FIFA 22? A new season of innovation across every mode, including: FIFA Ultimate Team introduces the all-new Player-to-Player Global Market, giving global superstars and FUT ICONS more ways than ever to earn and manage your Ultimate Team. The new Squad Builder mode, already fan-favorite from last year's FIFA, allows players to bring their very own clubs and tactics to life. This year, the launch of FIFA Ultimate Team marks the beginning of a new generation of football - the age of the FUT Champions. Players will be able to call themselves FUT CHAMPIONS, and earn items and rewards from their victories like never before. FIFA 22 re-introduces the Feel the Passion: Ultimate Team Experience, giving players a completely new and unprecedented way to earn loyalty points in and outside of FIFA Ultimate Team. Our game engine allows us to add new life to the passion of the sport of football. FIFA 22 introduces first-ever in-game celebrations from the UEFA Champions League, UEFA Europa League, and more! Players will celebrate like never before, as the game engine is now able to accurately manage celebrations from multiple leagues. FIFA 22 introduces a brand-new real-world MyPLAYER™ social platform which allows players to upload and share content, ranging from videos and screenshots to recorded highlights and match replays. One of the most highly-requested features from last year's FIFA is now here, powered by FIFA Ultimate Team: the live transfer market. Using the new transfer API, we're able to update the player kits of your favorite football clubs live on the day of a transfer. And when we say live, we mean live - our in-game market gets updates in real-time as clubs are completed and rumoured deals are made. Now, players will receive a yearly free upgrade to the newest version of their game. If you have the original game disc for the previous year, you will also be able to download the previous year's game update for free for two weeks after launch. FIFA 22 introduces the all-new "off the ball" new Real Player Motion. We
